Argonaut Private Equity partners with Mammoth Carbon Products

(TULSA, Okla.) – Argonaut Private Equity, a Tulsa, Okla.-based private equity fund, announced its investment of Mammoth Carbon Products, a Houston-based pipeline distribution company. Mammoth is an industry leader in carbon steel pipe distribution and services for the energy infrastructure markets.

Established in 2014, Mammoth currently services the North American market with a large presence in Texas and Colorado. With the completion of the acquisition, Argonaut will partner with Mammoth to continue its geographical expansion into markets in the Northeastern United States, Canada and California.

“Mammoth is well positioned to significantly impact the distribution of steel pipeline in North America to meet the infrastructure demand,” said Steve Mitchell, CEO of Argonaut. “At Argonaut, we have a deep history of investing in midstream services and products. The acquisition of Mammoth provides the opportunity to leverage Argonaut’s experience, affiliates and industry relationships in the midstream market. We are excited to partner with Mike Ellis and the rest of the Mammoth team.”

Mammoth has long-standing relationships with steel mills to address new pipeline projects, as well as an extensive inventory of carbon steel pipe products of various diameters and wall thickness. This allows Mammoth to respond to the shorter lead time needed for the maintenance and repair market.

“We are known for our quick action response time and providing exceptional customer service in the markets we serve. Aligning with Argonaut ensures we retain our service model while adding industry strength and resources to broaden our scope and reach into new markets,” said Mammoth President Mike Ellis.

Mammoth is well positioned to significantly impact the distribution of steel pipeline in North America to meet the infrastructure demand.
